1

Education

The conference features more than 100 concurrent sessions led by school librarians, professors, vendors, and field experts. Topics span AI, collection development, collaboration, mindfulness, makerspaces, coding, book clubs, design thinking, and more. In addition, four keynote sessions will highlight inspiring voices, including professor Dr. John Almarode, author India Hill Brown, school librarian and podcaster Amy Hermon, and Newbery Medal winning author Grace Lin.

2

Networking

Each year, our conference brings together 600+ school librarians from across the state. It's a chance to connect, share ideas, and collaborate—whether in sessions, the exhibit hall, or casual conversations in between. You'll leave with fresh strategies, new connections, and inspiration to take back to your library.

3

Celebrate & Recharge

School librarians are among the hardest-working members of the school community, often serving solo or with just one colleague. This conference offers a much-needed opportunity to recharge, connect, and gain fresh inspiration alongside fellow librarians. In honor of VAASL's 50th anniversary this year, attendees will also enjoy a special screening of The Librarians and a celebratory anniversary party on Thursday evening.

4

Cost

Take advantage of the early bird registration rate of $285 by September 30th and enjoy nearly three full days of professional learning, networking, and inspiration in historic Colonial Williamsburg. Your registration includes breakfast on Friday, lunches on Thursday and Friday, and afternoon snacks in the exhibit hall.
